Heron Days Mini-Report

At this writing, we have hosted two of our four Heron Days boat tours, April 29 and 30 from Lakeside Park. The weather cooperated with comfortable warm days and calm waters at Lakeside County Park.

High waters allowed us to go back into McGough Slough where we were able to get right under Heron nests for an excellent view. One group saw a dozen Yellow-Headed Blackbirds in

Successful Heron Days and outstanding programs highlighted 2017

This past year, ALL of our programs have been outstanding. Our fall programs in Kelseyville included Dr. Harry Lyons and his "Lessons from Green Water" followed by Dr. Floyd Hayes and his "Adventures Along the Amazon." And, we can't forget Bob Lewis and "A Bird's Rainbow" and our annual "Bird Identification" with Brad Barnwell as we prepared for our annual Christmas Bird Count (CBC) in December. Our spring programs in Lower Lake took us from the Pacific with "Our Changing Oceans" with Ron LeValley to "Travels in Ecuador" with Gordon Beebe. And we ended the year learning about "California Dragonflies" with Kathy and Dave Biggs and "BATS!" with Rachael Long. Pretty amazing what we were able to offer this year. We think next year will be just as exciting!

And, thanks to our field trip coordinator, Pat Harmon, we've traveled near and far for some awesome sightings. And thanks to our CBC coordinators, Brad and Kathy Barnwell, we counted a lot of birds!

Finally, we are ending the year with a very successful Heron Days 2017. We thank the many volunteers who make this annual event successful. The dedicated volunteers who assist with the planning and registration, those who serve as bird guides, boat captains, and all those working behind the scenes, are one special group of wonderful and dedicated people! Thank you!

We wouldn't be able to make any of this happen without our committed board members.

Please consider joining us on our board. Consider serving on the board to see what it is like and what you have to offer. Please call Roberta Lyons at (707) 994-2024 or email: roberta.lyons@att.net if you would like to discuss how you can get involved to help the birds and other wildlife of Lake County. We hope to see you at our picnic on May 18 at Lakeside County Park and in September as we start off a new year of programs and field trips.

As I mentioned at our April meeting, I will be moving from the area; I have enjoyed working with this group of dedicated professionals who are passionate about birds. I thank them for sharing their knowledge about birds but most of all for their friendship. Again, I hope to see you at the end of year picnic on May 18.

Meet Board Member Susanne Scholz

Susanne is Membership Manager for Redbud Audubon. She has been a member and held many leadership positions in the club for almost 40 years.

In 1978 Susanne moved from Marin, where she had taken the weekly outings led by Audubon's Mrs. Terwilliger, to Lake County, where she attended a Redbud Audubon Meeting and was immediately recruited to be Social Chairman. Now, almost 40 years later, she has been President for a number of years, Secretary for a few years and is currently one of the people looking after Redbud's Membership. Along the way, she met her husband, Jim, who came to Audubon seeking photographic opportunities and was soon recruited to be Treasurer. He has also served a few years as President and now does the mailing duties for the newsletter.

Susanne authored Nature Notes, a weekly column in the Clearlake Observer-American about the natural world in Lake County, for five years, and served on the Board of the Lake County Land Trust, before spending 10 years as their first Executive Director.

She is an avid birder, kayaker, camper, and gardener and loves to travel. A favorite trip, to Costa Rica, was organized by local Audubon member Bella Kluyt and included several members of Redbud Audubon.

the tules. Others saw two Bald Eagles and White Pelicans. A scope was set up right at the docks and was focused on an Osprey nest located off the parking lot.

All went well on Saturday. Each boater made two 90-minute tours. On Sunday Bonny and Clyde's boat broke down in McGough Slough on their first tour. Bob Rumpfelt was able to tow them out, and his boat was able to accommodate some of Bonny and Clyde's second-tour guests. Jim Herrmann graciously offered to run a third tour for the remaining guests. Bonny acted as bird guide. To reward the participants for their patience, they got an extra long tour.

All in all, we were able to accommodate about 160 guests that weekend.

Our next tours will take off on May 6 and 7 from Shady Acres Campground and should be another delightful time for all.

An estimated 160 guests were taken on pontoon boats and spotted Osprey, Pelicans, Herons and more.

Great Blue Herons were a favorite during the tours.

A flock of colorful Yellow-Headed Blackbirds were spotted amidst the tules.

The Great Blue Heron nests provided exciting viewing for observers from the pontoon boats.

A scope allowed visitors to view the goings on at a giant Osprey nest located near the parking lot.

Pelicans provided guests with quite a show.

Education Report

Jackie Millar, Coyote Valley Elementary fifth-grade teacher, participated in the curriculum provided by Audubon this year. She shares her thoughts:

Dear Mrs. Anderson,

Unfortunately our class did not get out much with the rain to look for birds during the great backyard bird count. We did spot a white egret in the field one day.

That said, our fifth grade classroom had an incredible time learning about birds with the quality, colorful, and engaging Audubon resources. The students especially enjoyed exploring the website. We poured over the magazines as a class, and had fun exploring the numerous resources on the well-crafted web component, especially the quizzes, and printable activities.

I was particularly proud of the posters the students lovingly created to warn fishers of the various dangers to birds from left over fishing lines. I've included some pictures of students with their posters.

The curriculum is aesthetically pleasing, intellectually stimulating, and encourages students to be critical thinkers who take an active role in helping to treasure and protect our birds.

Thank you for the opportunity to experience this valuable resource.

-Jackie Millar

While creating informative posters, students learned about the dangers birds face everyday.

These Coyote Valley Elementary fifth graders spotted an egret during the Great Backyard Bird Count.

Students made posters warning fishers of the dangers discarded fishing line poses to waterfowl.

Students learned about birds from the Audubon website and Audubon Adventures Magazine.

These students urge the protection of birds by not littering.

Redbud Audubon board member Marilyn Waits visits with students during the Earth Day event at Woodland Community College. Marilyn leads the organization's Grebe Conservation project which provides information to both visitors and residents about the importance of Clear Lake as a Western and Clark's Grebe habitat.
